

Duplex Apartment at
3908 & 3910 North Park Avenue
Outside

Brother Branham and Sister Meda Branham in front of the duplex apartment

The 3910 side is where Sister Larson had the television that Brother Branham speaks about in his sermons God's Power To Transform, September 11, 1965, Phoenix, Arizona; and Power Of Transformation, October 31, 1965 a.m., Prescott, Arizona.

Brother Branham never lived in the house he built for his family in Tucson, Arizona. The majority of the time that he lived in Tucson, he rented a duplex apartment from Sister Larson. (A duplex apartment is a house that is divided into two separate apartments.)

On the 3908 North Park Avenue side, Brother Branham received the people (the right-hand side). On the 3910 side, his family lived (the left-hand side).

3910 N. Park Ave

3908 N. Park Ave.

Duplex Apartment at
3908 & 3910 North Park Avenue
Other Furniture and The Larsons

Brother Branham's desk (left)

Brother and Sister Larson
(around the 1980's)

The place where we live—Sister Larson—I don't think she's here. She's been very nice to us, and she don't like for me to say that. But she's a very fine lady, and we've been living in her rooms. She's got two apartments, small apartments together; we rented them both. And wife and I sleep over here in the other apartment where I kind of receive the people when I can, and there's a couple of little twin beds in there.

[Ashamed of Him, July 11, 1965, Jeffersonville, Indiana]

The living room and dining room furniture – The small piece of carpet on the floor in front of the sofa. This is a small section of the original carpet.

Duplex Apartment at
3908 & 3910 North Park Avenue
Bedroom

In his sermon On The Wings Of A Snow-White Dove,¹ Brother Branham tells how he arose early Saturday morning and looked over at his wife, who was still asleep in the other twin bed. Then he looked out the window in the northeasterly direction toward the Catalina Mountains, where the Lord had put the sword in his hand while he was praying in Sabino Canyon. He also thought about the seven angels that appeared to him near Sunset Mountain, about forty miles northeast of Tucson. As he looked, he entered into a vision and saw himself standing by the tree where he had previously seen that little odd-looking squirrel. He thought, "That's that squirrel's den. I wonder if he's still up there." When he raked the side of the tree, out came that squirrel. Immediately, the squirrel jumped at him—this time he missed his mouth, hit his chest, and fell off. As soon as he did, Brother Branham heard something tell him, "Go to the Catalina Mountains." (See the Sabino Canyon section for the remainder of the details of this event.)

The twin beds in Brother and Sister Branham's bedroom.

Other furniture in the bedroom

¹ On The Wings Of A Snow-White Dove, November 28, 1965 p.m., Shreveport, Louisiana

Refrigerator (The white corner on the lower right-hand side of the picture is the stove. This shows the size of the kitchen.)

Duplex Apartment at
3908 & 3910 North Park Avenue
Kitchen and Citrus Tree

Kitchen sink and counter, the stove is in the foreground
The window faces the backyard, where the citrus tree is that had several types of citrus branches grafted onto it. (below)

Range (stove and oven)

Small fold-out table in the kitchen
(Stove is on the left; refrigerator on the right)

Iron skillet that Brother Branham used to fry his breakfast